

Wines are always changing; to love wine is to love change and to love conversation about wine. We have been open for a few months now, and our wine list is changing too, as it always will. This list is a perpetual work in progress. As we drift into the dog days of summer this is a collection of wines that makes sense to us, and we hope to you as well.

Some of the wines on this list are about innovation and some are about tradition. You'll find certain regions are over represented and others under - that will continue to evolve as our and our guests' excitement about different wines waxes and wanes - some of the wines our team are the most excited about are highlighted in the body of the list.

While you are here we hope you will drink delicious wine, eat tasty food, have good conversation, and a few laughs.

Forget labels, screw dogma, try new things. Ask questions. Explore. Enjoy.

Take wine seriously, but never too.

Corkage is $30 per 750ml bottle. Wines brought in that are on our list will not be opened. Corkage will be waived for all bottles over 15 years old.

CHENIN FROM JACKY BLOT OF DOMAINE DE LA TAILLE AUX LOUPS

Former wine broker Jacky Blot purchased his first old vine vineyard in Montlouis in 1988. Since then he has been on a mission at Taille aux Loup to craft Chenin Blanc that screams of site - that are complex, textured, and bone dry. His winemaking could be described as Burgundian, but he calls it the “school of Montlouis.” Organic viticulture (from the start), indigenous fermentations, long slow fermentation and aging in barrel (about 20% new) with no battonage and no malolactic fermentation. Then the wines are moved to steel tank for a rest before bottling. Sometimes doing things traditionally can be revolutionary.

CHABLIS

“I don’t like white Burgundy, but Chablis is Chablis, I like that.” A friend and wine importer recently stated. Whether you roll your eyes at that or agree, Chablis’ uniqueness and specificity are undeniable. Lovers of Chablis rejoice in finding one that is truly titular - that could be nothing else.

Chablis is technically part of Burgundy, but the eponymous town is 85 miles NW of Dijon, the largest town of the Côte d’Or. The unique mix of the soil in each vineyard - how much chalky limestone to clay and fossilized seashells - and subtle differences in exposition are what makes each of Chablis vineyards’ wines so distinct from the next. The wines that follow are all chardonnay... all Chablis.

BELLE OISEAU

When we opened Little Bird Bistro (aka Bistro Petit Oiseau) we wanted to create a 'house wine.' We looked to the Edelzwickers of Alsace. Fresh whites made with a blend of the local varietals. We turned to Brian and Jill O'Donnell of Belle Pente Vineyards who grow a number of Alsatian varietals. What we discovered was that the wines we make each year not only taste great young, they age fabulously. Here is one from the vault.

IN BETWEEN WINES

Rosé and orange wines live in the middle - they aren't quite red or white - so that's where we put them.

Rosé comes from red grapes and incorporates some of the color from the skin, but not enough to qualify as a red wine. Orange wines, also known as skin-contact wines, are simply wines made by leaving the grape skin in contact with the juice from white grapes. The flavor profiles are in a league all of their own displaying structure, tannin and texture. Orange wine may just spark a new fire in your wine game. Ya welcome.

BANDOL FROM CHÂTEAU DE PIBARNON

Bandol sits above the Mediterranean coast in Provence. Here the Mourvèdre grape is the dominant red varietal. It is uniquely suited to this spot. The grape retains freshness through the long Mediterranean summer, but it also needs a long time on the vine for its flavors to mature. The hillside vineyards and Mediterranean breezes allow for that long ripening. The red wines from here are curious in their ability to show power and earth, but retain a fresh quality. Pibarnon is an estate that exemplifies this. It's vineyards are at the highest altitude in the appellation within a natural amphitheatre. Its soils are unique as well. There is a high percentage of limestone as well as fossilized material not found in its neighbors' vineyard. Vines are cared for according to organic principles, harvest is always by hand, and wines are fermented with indigenous yeasts. The Bandol Rouge includes 10% Grenache and ages for 20 months in old large barrels. Dark fruit, spice, herbs, earth...it's all there.

BOB DYLAN AND THE WINES OF LE TERRAZZE

Le Terrazze lies in the foothills of Mount Conero in the Marche region a scant 2 km from the Adriatic. The estate was founded in 1882, but it was in the 1980's that Antonio Terni took over, modernizing things with a mind to tradition as well. In 1997 Terni began bottling a Rosso Conero named Visions of J (named for the famous song), that Bob tasted a few years later. They then collaborated on a few vintages of Planet Waves. These wines were never shy, and now with a dozen years or more of bottle age they are singing - pun intended.

CALIFORNIA LOVE

CALIFORNIA PINOT NOIR

Here in the Willamette Valley we love Pinot Noir. It's been in our hearts since David Lett first put down roots in 1965, literally. When it comes to Pinot Noir though we often forget our Pinot Noir producing neighbor to the south. (No, we are not referring to Richard Sommer who planted Pinot in the Umpqua Valley of Oregon in 1961, which we don't really talk about). Rather, we are talking about Pinot Noir from California. There are so many thrilling selections! This is not a comprehensive list of "the best" producers in CA. It is simply a list of some that we feel are special. Maybe give one a try?

PINOT NOIR FROM PORTER CREEK VINEYARDS

In 1977 George Davis purchased 40 acres of land in Sonoma to grow Pinot and Chardonnay. Twenty years later his son Alex took over. In addition to growing up working at the winery Alex spent several years in France working with renowned winemakers including Christophe Roumier. George and Alex have always focused on making delicate and elegant wines that show little oak and lots of terroir. Fiona Hill is a steep south facing hillside of clay over bedrock that pushes the vines to go deep. All farming is biodynamic. These are soulful expressions of Pinot, and it's surprising that they are not more well known.
