

This is the part of the wine list that tells you about the wine list. Alternatively, this is where we try to explain what we were thinking when we assembled this collection of wines. Well, we weren't thinking too deeply, really we were following our hearts and hunches - we were feeling. This is a collection of wines we want to share today as we embrace spring. Wines are always changing; to love wine is to love change and to love conversation about wine. To that end, we hope to spark these conversations. Some of the wines on this list are about innovation and some are about tradition. Some regions are over represented and some under - that will change as our and our guests' excitement about different wines waxes and wanes. This list is a perpetual work in progress. While you are here we hope you will drink delicious wine, eat tasty food, have good conversation, and some laughs.

Forget labels, screw dogma, try new things. Ask questions. Explore. Enjoy.

Take wine seriously, but never too.

Corkage is $30 per 750ml bottle. Wines brought in that are on our list will not be opened. Corkage will be waived for all bottles over 15 years old.

SAUVIGNON BLANC

DON'T SKIP OVER, KEEP READING!

Ask any wine pro and they will tell you they love high acid whites - riesling and chenin come up frequently. Steaux omewhere along the way Sauv Blanc lost its cool (Scott, you're the exception, you keep the faith). The ones below are bright, mineral driven, and some will surprise you with their exotic aromas and balanced weight. Worth a look!

CHABLIS

"I don't like white Burgundy, but Chablis is Chablis, I like that." A friend and wine importer recently stated. Whether you roll your eyes at that or agree, Chablis' uniqueness and specificity are undeniable. Lovers of Chablis rejoice in finding one that is truly titular - that could be nothing else.

Chablis is technically part of Burgundy, but the eponymous town is 85 miles NW of Dijon, the largest town of the Côte d'Or. The unique mix of the soil in each vineyard - how much chalky limestone to clay and fossilized seashells - and subtle differences in exposition are what makes each of Chablis vineyards' wines so distinct from the next. The wines that follow are all chardonnay.... all Chablis.

DOMAINE DUREUIL-JANTHIAL

“If I see his name on a wine list, I don’t give it a second thought and simply order his wine.” (Jean-Francois Coche).

Vincent Dureuil is a master farmer and winemaker, basically a workaholic, and he produces wines of absolute grace. Wines that are texturally luscious but never flabby. Wines that are crisp but never jarring. People often debate what is a wine’s biggest marker. The grape, the vineyard from which it came, or the wine-maker’s hand? Vincent’s focus is everywhere, so in this case the answer is all of the above.

GERMAN RIESLING

About a dozen years ago the word trocken (dry) started popping up more and more on German wine labels. Sometimes hyphenated onto the Prädikat designation (the kabinett, spätlese, etc. which specifies ripeness), sometimes the bottle just says Riesling Trocken, and sometimes it lists a vineyard name, with no ripeness level, and the word trocken. Andy visited Germany around that time and asked many winemakers, which style of wine was truly the classic style, the dry or the fruity? He reports that 1/2 answered one way and 1/2 the other. Now over a decade later we are seeing a new school of winemakers that are not worried about making a dry wine vs. a fruity wine. They want to make the wine the vineyard and vintage dictates. Neither is the right way, they are just different ways.

BELLE OISEAU

When we opened Little Bird Bistro (aka Bistro Petit Oiseau) we wanted to create a 'house wine.' We looked to the Edelzwickers of Alsace. Fresh whites made with a blend of the local varietals. We turned to Brian and Jill O'Donnell of Belle Pente Vineyards who grow a number of Alsatian varietals. What we discovered was that the wines we make each year not only taste great young, they age fabulously. Here is one from the vault.

IN BETWEEN WINES

Rosé and orange wines live in the middle - they aren't quite red or white - so that's where we put them.

Rosé comes from red grapes and incorporates some of the color from the skin, but not enough to qualify as a red wine. Orange wines, also known as skin-contact wines, are simply wines made by leaving the grape skin in contact with the juice from white grapes. The flavor profiles are in a league all of their own displaying structure, tannin and texture. Orange wine may just spark a new fire in your wine game. Ya welcome.

BANDOL FROM CHÂTEAU DE PIBARNON

Bandol sits above the Mediterranean coast in Provence. Here the Mourvèdre grape is the dominant red varietal. It is uniquely suited to this spot. The grape retains freshness through the long Mediterranean summer, but it also needs a long time on the vine for its flavors to mature. The hillside vineyards and Mediterranean breezes allow for that long ripening. The red wines from here are curious in their ability to show power and earth, but retain a fresh quality. Pibarnon is an estate that exemplifies this. It's vineyards are at the highest altitude in the appellation within a natural amphitheatre. Its soils are unique as well. There is a high percentage of limestone as well as fossilized material not found in its neighbors' vineyard. Vines are cared for according to organic principles, harvest is always by hand, and wines are fermented with indigenous yeasts. The Bandol Rouge includes 10% Grenache and ages for 20 months in old large barrels. Dark fruit, spice, herbs, earth...it's all there.

CALIFORNIA LOVE

CALIFORNIA PINOT NOIR

Here in the Willamette Valley we love Pinot Noir. It's been in our hearts since David Lett first put down roots in 1965, literally. When it comes to Pinot Noir though we often forget our Pinot Noir producing neighbor to the south. (No, we are not referring to Richard Sommer who planted Pinot in the Umpqua Valley of Oregon in 1961, which we don't really talk about). Rather, we are talking about Pinot Noir from California. There are so many thrilling selections! This is not a comprehensive list of "the best" producers in CA. It is simply a list of some that we feel are special. Maybe give one a try?

PINOT NOIR FROM PORTER CREEK VINEYARDS

In 1977 George Davis purchased 40 acres of land in Sonoma to grow Pinot and Chardonnay. Twenty years later his son Alex took over. In addition to growing up working at the winery Alex spent several years in France working with renowned winemakers including Christophe Roumier. George and Alex have always focused on making delicate and elegant wines that show little oak and lots of terroir. Fiona Hill is a steep south facing hillside of clay over bedrock that pushes the vines to go deep. All farming is biodynamic. These are soulful expressions of Pinot, and it's surprising that they are not more well known.
